MANY COOKS DESERT.

New York, Nov. 11.—Uncle Sam, rich and powerful, good to his "help," and the surest pay in the world, can't keep his cooks any longer or better than the ordinary Jersey commuter. He offers them good pay, easy hours, and lots of "nights out," but they simply will not overlook the fact that they are cooks, bred and born, and so keep moving on.

United States Marine Corps statistics covering the last two years, show a greater percentage of men deserted who gave occupation prior to entry as "cooks," than any other class that enlisted during the period.

Desertions from the Marine Corps are very light at all times; the average Marine considers that the service offers better advantages than anything he could find in civil life, and he believes the opportunities for travel and adventure to be unexcelled, and, were it not for the cooks, Marine Corps officials believe that the "oldest branch of the service" would have an almost clean slate with regard to desertions. No class of men look so lightly on the oath of obligation as these self-same "knights of the frying pan," Marine Corps recruiters declare.

CHANGE IN SCHEDULE FOR FOOTBALL GAME.

On account of the Yale-Princeton football game, the train leaving New Haven at 4:35 p. m., will leave next Saturday at 3:45 p. m., and be operated about 50 minutes earlier at all stations to Stamford, running on its regular schedule between Stamford and New York.

The train leaving New Haven at 5:37 p. m. for New York and intermediate stations, will leave on that date at 6:22 p. m., being operated about 45 minutes later than its regular schedule at all stations.

HEART TOPICS

CLEVER WIDOW AND SINGLE WOMEN

"Not one could tell, for nobody knew. Why love was made to gladden a few And hearts that would forever be true, Go lone and starved the whole way through."

I am nonplussed at the avalanche of letters which has poured in upon me this past week, making the query, in widows more fascinating to men than one ingenious way or another, "Are their single sisters?" If so, why so? What is their secret of power over male hearts?" etc.

These correspondents have placed a rather hard conundrum before me to solve, but I'll do my best to try to unravel the mystery. The woman who has gone through the experience of happy courtship and marriage has gone from her A. B. C.'s to graduation in her knowledge of men's hearts and the general principle of making herself agreeable to the opposite sex. She knows men are of the world worldly, they admire saints, but at a great distance. Therefore the widow who is not averse to trying matrimony a second time is not a prude but rather a jolly companion, who has it down to a science just how far to encourage sentiment, always adroitly turning a man's thoughts to matrimony, never to frivolity.

No matter how sad the widow's heart may be, she trains her lips to wear a smile, she knows a man enjoys a hearty laugh with a woman, but will flee from a tale of woe. She is past mistress in the delicate art of the right kind of courtship; the kind that awakens what is noblest, truest and best in man's nature.

First, she simply impresses the man she would win with her modesty, gentleness, sympathy and earnestness. Her intuition tells her the kind of a man whose heart is impossible and those who are free lances, and ever will be. The widow's cleverness is evidenced by the fact that she will not encourage the calls of the man who would enjoy the warmth and coziness of her parlor the long winter through, but parry all attempts to discover his attitude regarding marriage.

The widow is wise enough to classify friends in the category to which they belong, wasting neither hopes nor time upon them. When the friends calls for a pleasant evening, she treats him cordially, generally inviting some single woman acquaintance to enjoy his society also, providing she knows beforehand that he is content.

If her admirer talks seriously, she gives him a fair chance to propose. She is so dignified, so womanly, understanding so thoroughly a man's moods, cheering him when he is lonely and despondent, catching his happy spirit when he is gay; knowing how to soothe when he is restless and capturing when he is bored—that her witchery grows upon him. By degrees he becomes dependent upon her for happiness.

Many a single woman lets a man take his own time to discover the state of his heart. The widow's creed is waste as little time as possible. Generosity is a part of her nature.

If a man does not seem to admire her, and she thinks he would make a good husband or a woman whom he could admire, she is generous enough to introduce him to her women friends.

Single women are every whit as attractive to men as widows are. The rock ahead of many single women is in encouraging as a lover, men who have not the remotest idea of ever taking unto themselves a wife. When such a man's ardor begins to cool, and he absents himself on the evenings he was wont to call—making all sorts of excuses to remain away, the widow it to business worry—anything, everything but the right cause. A widow would surmise he had found a new sweetheart and erase him from her heart at once without ado. Every woman, she she maid or widow, has the same kind of a loving heart in her bosom. The single woman grieves over a broken love dream. The widow allows no man to break her neatly mended heart.

MISS LIBBY'S REPLIES TO YOUR LETTERS

Miss Libby's answers to your letters. Correct name and address must be given to insure attention. Initials printed. Write short letters on one side of paper only. Use ink. Personal letters cannot be answered. Address Miss Laura Jean Libby, No. 916 President Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH THE HAND?

Dear Miss Libby:—
I have been appointed to teach a country school. I am a young woman of 23. The children range in age from 10 to 14. I am told my three fingers had hanging in her desk a spanking.

stick to instill fear of punishment for disobedience in the hearts of the pupils. I confess honestly that I have never seen one. Will you kindly tell me where they are procurable, and greatly oblige?

MISS E. H. C.
In Charles Dickens' time we read that the grim old school masters used to flog the naughty, rebellious school urchins with birch switches which the victims were obliged to cut from the trees. The lads were canny enough to cut the thinnest sapling branch, and they took care to slash even these so that they could not do much harm, being punctured at the right place. But to speak from experience—and a tomboy's point of view at that—my mother considered the smooth cushion of her hand quite the correct spanker for all intents and purposes. Almost daily practice made perfect in her case. Because of the ever ready spanker, I never got away with all the pranks I planned. Rule your scholars by love.

ALL GIRLS ARE NOT MAN-CRAZY

Dear Miss Libby:—
I am a girl of 16. I met a young man of 21, who seems to like me quite well, but I do not care for him. He keeps writing me cards and letters asking me to let him see me, as he would like to ask an important question, which would mean much to my after life—marriage. I do not answer his letters as I wouldn't care to correspond with a man of his age. Please advise me if I should write and tell him so.

MISS T. C.
It would be best to write the young man that you are too young to correspond with any young man, and that you are heart whole and fancy free and intend to remain so for at least two or three years. Thank him for the deep interest he has taken in you, adding that you hope he will see, in after time, the wisdom of your present decision. I am glad to receive so sensible a letter from you. I wish there were more girls like you. When you do consider love and matrimony you will choose wisely.

A TAX ON FRIENDSHIP.

Dear Miss Libby:—
I am a crippled girl of 23. I get awful lonesome at times. I cannot get out to make any friends. None of the girls around here will spend one hour with me. There is a young girl living with us. She even will not keep me company. I dearly love her, but she does not return my affection. Please tell me how I can win her love. Also how I can make new friends. Kindly advise your invalid reader.

V. M. K.
Yours is indeed a lot hard to endure, dear child. My heart-depth sympathies go out to you. There is nothing more cruel in this world than to be afflicted and lonely, and through it all crave love, which should be the birth right of every being born into this world. If I knew the names of the girls of your village I would write them an earnest letter, asking them to devote a little of their spare time to so worthy an object as making your poor little, lonely heart lighter and happier from the sunshine of their presence. Perhaps other kind hearts may go out to you, and those whose eyes fall upon your pitiful appeal may send you a pretty postcard. There is still much kindness and sympathy left in this cold old world. If you fail to win the love you so earnestly crave, other interests may come into your life to keep you from grieving over it.

Sheboygan Girls
Clips Hair In Dream

Sheboygan, Wis., Nov. 11.—When Gertrude Grass entered the freshman class at the Sheboygan high school she had long beautiful blonde hair, which was admired by every one. She was only 15 years old, so wore it in a braid, which came below her waist.

The other night there was company visiting her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Grass. They also admired the girl's hair and talked of it considerably. The next morning Gertrude awoke late and hurried so as not to be tardy at school. When she started to comb her hair she found that it was gone. In place of the long blonde tresses she found her hair as short as a boy's.

The girl ran screaming downstairs to her mother. As she passed through the library she saw the long braid and scissors lying on a table. Mr. and Mrs. Grass believe that the girl, while asleep, clipped off her pretty tresses.

TODAY'S POEM

MEDITATION

Most sweet it is with unuplifted eyes
To pace the ground if path there be or none,
While a fair region round the traveler lies,
Which he forbears again to look upon:
Pleased rather with some soft ideal
scene,
The work of fancy, or some happy
tone,
Of meditation, slipping in between
The beauty coming and the beauty gone.

CORNER FOR COOKS

LAMB'S LIVER AND RICE

Boil lamb's liver until tender and then chop. Put it in alternate layers with boiled rice in a buttered baking dish. Moisten the whole with melted butter, and season with salt, cayenne and black pepper. Top with a layer of rice well buttered, and brown in the oven.

GRAPE GLAZE

Boil two pints of water and one of sugar 15 minutes, then add two tablespoons of granulated gelatin. When cool, add the juice of two lemons, the stiffly beaten white of an egg and four tablespoons of whipped cream. Put a little of this at a time into individual moulds and when firm cover with pitted cherries and another layer of the gelatin mixture. Continue until the mould is full. Chill and serve with whipped cream.

EGG AND LETTUCE SALAD

Allow 2 eggs to each person and boil eggs 15 minutes. Chill. Quarter or slice upon a flat dish or platter which has been covered with lettuce and cut in narrow strips with scissors. Slice ten or more stuffed olives, scatter over eggs and add mounds of cooked dressing at intervals over the whole. Sprinkle with paprika and serve ice cold.

EAT LEMONS

Lemon taken internally will quench thirst, prevent over-indulgence in ice water, clear the skin, assist digestion, and eventually rid one of obesity. Applied externally they are a bleach which removes stains from fingers at neck, freckles from arms, neck, cheeks and other sallow blemishes. Pineapples will sweeten the voice and restore its quality if it has grown husky. It also aids digestion, which means improvement in the complexion. For sagging tissues and wrinkles ice is the remedy of the present day. Try it some day after a massage, and note the wonderful change in your appearance and feelings. Do not imagine that one or two treatments will dispel the deep seated wrinkles as if by magic, but the conditions will be improved, and continued and systematic use will bring lasting good.

VIRGINIA PICKLE, WITHOUT COOKING

Mix in a three gallon jar one gallon strong vinegar, one half pint salt, three pounds of brown sugar, two ounces each black pepper, brown ginger, celery seed, mustard seed, mace, cloves, horseradish and all-spice, one-half box ground mustard, a little red pepper and one-half dozen pepper pods. Peel three dozen onions and put with fresh cucumbers just from the vines, washed and wiped dry, into spiced vinegar, using enough to fill the jar. Agitate pickles every other morning until cool weather comes, then add more sugar until pickles have a pleasant taste.

LITTLE MOLASSES CAKES

Two scant cupfuls lard, 2 cupfuls molasses, 1 egg, 1 tablespoonful soda, cinnamon, cloves, flour, salt. Mix the ingredients together with sufficient flour to roll out on a board. Cut in fancy shapes after rolling the dough about one-quarter on an inch thick.

NEW TURNIPS WITH BUTTER

The new turnips are very sweet and well flavored just now and make an excellent accompaniment for a roast of lamb. Pare and cut in dice and cook in enough water to cover until tender. Drain and serve in a hot dish with melted butter, to which you have added a tablespoon of chopped parsley poured over them.

PEACH COBBLER

Make a rich pie crust. Peel, stone and cut peaches in quarter. Fill a well-greased baking dish almost full of peaches, sugar thoroughly, dot with a little butter, cover top with pastry and bake in a quick oven. Turn crust on platter and pile with peaches.

LOCAL MAN'S LICENSES
SUSPENDED INDEFINITELY

(Special to The Farmer)

Hartford, Nov. 11.—The licenses of George White and Thomas Lavino were ordered continued under suspension by Secretary of State Burnes. Lavino was driving a car that killed a girl Aug. 13 and his license was suspended indefinitely. That of White will be invalid until Dec. 1. He lost control of his machine in Milford and it injured a pedestrian.

Ellas Katz of Norwalk was charged with reckless driving in that place. His case was continued one week to hear further testimony.

M. Edward Harrison of Danbury was charged with driving a motor car after his license had been suspended. His license was suspended for fifteen days from the date of his arrest.

John Shannon of Danbury was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor in that city. Secretary Burnes suspended his license indefinitely.

Earnest Hillier, of Rowayton, who was charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor at Fairfield, failed to appear at the hearing and Secretary Burnes suspended his license indefinitely.

The license of Donald Leo of Danbury was suspended for ten days for driving a motorcycle recklessly in that city on Oct. 18. He passed a trolley car discharging passengers.

The license of George Briggs, Jr., of Greenwich was suspended for ten days. He was in an automobile accident in that place Aug. 19 at which time he struck and damaged another car.

The license of Robert Halfpenny of Rowayton was ordered returned. Burnes warned him to be careful.

Roland Lounsbury of Stamford, struck and killed a man in that city on October 23. Lounsbury was exonerated by the coroner at a hearing after the accident. Secretary Burnes returned his license, saying that he did not believe Lounsbury at fault.

Best Canine Eerner
In World Now Dead

Dresden, Germany, Nov. 11.—"Don," the "speaking dog," who a few years ago made the rounds of the American variety theatres, and said to have made more money for his owner than any dog ever had made, is dead. He passed away at a very respectable old age at his birthplace near here, where he ceased to be a theatrical drawing card.

"Don" was the property of a ferret ter named Eber, who marvelled at the animal's uncanny trick of imitating the human voice. Dr. Roseler, director of the Hamburg Zoological Garden, became interested in "Don" and was finally instrumental in getting a theatrical engagement for him. Eventually Eber's daughter toured Austria-Hungary and finally the United States with the dog.

The safest soap for babies is

Resinol

This is so, first because it is one of the few soaps which contain no free alkali—that harsh, drying chemical which so frequently causes eczema, or other skin irritation. But, even more important, it contains the soothing, healing Resinol medication* to keep the delicate skin soft, clear and beautiful. You can safely trust your baby's skin health to Resinol Soap.

If You Really Want to Cure
Yourself of Constipation—

YOU must stop depending upon laxatives and cathartics. They afford only temporary relief and are dangerously habit-forming.

As a result of recent discoveries, leading physicians are gradually discarding the use of drugs in the treatment of constipation. Instead, they prescribe regular habits, sensible food, and an internal lubricant.

Nujol

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

A PURE WHITE MINERAL OIL

is odorless and tasteless, absolutely neutral, and is not digested or absorbed into the system. It acts merely as a mechanical lubricant.

Nujol is not a drug. Its use will not give quick, temporary relief. But Nujol is a genuine remedy in that it relieves constipation in the most natural way by lubricating the lining of the intestines, softening the intestinal contents, and thus promoting healthy and normal bowel activity.

Write for "The Rational Treatment of Constipation," an informative treatise on constipation. If you cannot get Nujol from your druggist, we will send you a pint bottle, prepaid to any point in the United States on receipt of 75c—money order or stamps.
